Saving smiles from gum disease and ensuring fresher breath at Queensway

After tooth decay, gum disease is the most common ailment to affect people, with approximately 80% of all adults believed to suffer from some form or other. Contrary to popular belief, gum disease does not ultimately lead to tooth loss. With early diagnosis and treatment, it is possible to arrest gum disease and maintain healthy teeth for a lifetime.

Periodontics is the branch of dentistry dedicated to treating gum disease. At Queensway our experienced and highly skilled periodontal team are able to offer gum health screening to enable early detection of gum disease and provide an appropriate care programme.

If you have red and swollen gums or are experiencing bleeding when you brush your teeth, arrange a free consultation by calling 01642 554667.

Alternatively, you can ask your dentist to refer you for a periodontal consultation.

For those who are anxious about receiving treatment, we have an anxiety management service available.

Fresh Breath Clinic

Halitosis, or bad breath as it is commonly known, is thought to affect up to 50% of the population. Friends, family and work colleagues do not always feel comfortable addressing the problem and for those that suffer from bad breath, it can negatively impact on confidence and the ability to interact at home and at work.

Bad breath is largely a result of bacteria which inhabits on the surface of the tongue but can also be a side effect of gum disease. In either case it can be treated.

At Queensway Dental Clinic we can offer a fresh breath screening service. Using our OralChroma device, our specifically trained team are able to analyse the source of your bad breath and offer you an option for treatment.

To book an appointment call 01642 554667.

Cosmetic and regenerative periodontal surgery

In some cases, where more significant gum disease is present, it is not possible to arrest gum disease by thorough deep cleaning alone. In cases where unsightly gum loss has occurred, we are able to offer the most up-to-date microsurgical techniques, using tried and tested biomaterials, to rejuvenate and restore your gums.

Unsightly and sensitive exposed roots can be covered to restore the harmony of your smile.
